- Once your visa is issued, your passport and visa packet will be delivered using the document delivery option you selected.

If your case includes more than one applicant, register a document delivery option for every dependent, not just the principal applicant. Failure to do so will delay your visa application process and your appointment may be rescheduled until you complete the registration.

To register your document delivery address online, please visit the U.S. Visa Information Service website at www.ustraveldocs.com. Alternatively, you can register or update your document delivery address by contacting the service provider's call center at www.ustraveldocs.com.

- For electronic (PIVOT) cases, you must also scan and upload the required documents to your file in the Department of State's Consular Electronic Application Center (CEAC) at <https://ceac.state.gov/IV>. For information about uploading and scanning documents, please review the instructions provided.

All visitors to the U.S. Embassy in Ankara must follow certain security procedures. Anyone who refuses to be screened by U.S. Embassy security personnel cannot enter the embassy.

Interview Guidelines

- Petitioners or family members (not applying to an immigrant visa with you), are not allowed to provide translation.

Immigrant visa fees

If you have not paid all required fees to either the National Visa Center or through the appointment website, please be prepared to pay them to the consular cashier on the day of your interview.

- All fees may be paid either in U.S. dollars or Turkish Lira in cash or by credit card. Please bring the exact change for each applicant. This fee is non-refundable, whether or not a visa is issued.
- You can find a complete list of fees at Fees for Visa Services.

Do not make travel plans to leave Türkiye

If approved, it will take at least five business days for us to prepare your immigrant visa.

- You must leave your passport at the Embassy and should not plan to travel anywhere outside of Türkiye that requires your passport during this time.
- A consular officer can decide on a visa application only after reviewing the formal application and conducting an interview with the applicant. Visa issuance is not guaranteed.
- Therefore, do not sell your house, car, or property, resign from your job, or make non-refundable flight or travel arrangements until you receive your immigrant visa.

If you need more information

Sometimes a consular officer cannot decide a visa application because he or she needs to review additional documents, or the case may require more administrative processing.

- When additional documents are requested, the consular officer will give you a refusal letter that asks you to submit additional documents.
- The letter will include instructions on how to send those documents to the embassy. You have one year from the date you were refused a visa to submit the additional documents.
- If you do not provide the required additional documents within one-year, you must reapply for the visa and pay another application fee.

Administrative processing takes additional time after the interview and the timing varies based on the circumstances of each case.

After your Visa Interview

Sending documents to the U.S. Embassy in Ankara after the interview

If your application is denied due to missing documentation or information, please provide the missing documents or information after your interview. You have one year from the date you were refused a visa to submit the additional materials. If you do not do so, your case will be terminated.

Documents may be submitted to the U.S Embassy by any courier service. Note: They must also be uploaded or scanned to your file in the Department of State's Consular Electronic Application Center (CEAC) at <https://ceac.state.gov/IV> for electronic/paperless cases. For guidance on uploading and scanning, instructions are available at: Uploading-to-CEAC-instructions.pdf.

- Please send the missing documents along with your passports all at the same time, in one submission. Documents uploaded to CEAC will not be reviewed until they are received with your passport at the Embassy.
- If your case requires further administrative processing, submit all missing documents and your valid passport only after you receive a processing completion confirmation email from the Embassy.
- If you have already submitted additional documents as requested, allow two weeks for a consular officer to review your case. Due to the high volume of mail, you will not receive confirmation of receipt unless more information is required.

Do not send multiple emails with the same inquiry. Once the additional information is reviewed, further updates will be provided.

For questions about the return of your passport or change of delivery option, contact our Visa Service Provider at: www.ustraveldocs.com.

Administrative Process

Some visa applications may require additional administrative processing. If this applies to your case, the consular officer will tell you at the end of your interview. The length of time administrative processing takes varies by case. Once processing is complete, the officer will determine whether you are eligible for the visa or remain ineligible.

Important: If the Consular Officer marked the box next to the QR code on your refusal sheet, you must scan the QR code and complete the DS-5535 form as instructed. This step is necessary to continue processing your case.

Not all administrative processing cases require a DS-5535 form.

- If only the administrative processing box is checked and the QR code box is not marked, your case remains under administrative processing, but you do not need to submit the DS-5535.

You only need to act if the officer requests additional documents during your interview. If no documents were requested, simply wait for administrative processing to be completed. The Embassy will contact you by email once it is completed.

Except in emergencies, such as serious illnesses, injuries, or deaths in your immediate family, please wait at least 180 days from the date of your interview or the submission of additional documents before inquiring about the status of your administrative processing.

After your Visa Interview

Online Status Check

Applicants can verify the status of their visa application online by visiting the Department of State's Consular Electronic Application Center (CEAC) at ceac.state.gov. Select the "Check My Visa Application Status" link under the "IMMIGRANT" category and enter your case number to access your application status.

What happens after visa approval?

We will place your immigrant visa on a page in your passport. Please review it to make sure there are no spelling errors.

- If necessary, we will also give you a sealed envelope containing documents that you must give to U.S. immigration authorities when you arrive in the United States for the first time. Do not open this envelope. You must carry it with you; do not put it in your checked luggage.
- If you received X-rays during your medical examination, carry those with you and give them to the U.S. immigration authorities.
- Many IV packets are now transmitted electronically to Customs and Border Protection and are accessible at the U.S. Port of Entry. An immigrant traveler carrying a visa with a special annotation (IV Docs in CCD) is not required to hand-carry an IV packet.

USCIS Immigrant Fee: Everyone issued immigrant visas overseas must pay an Immigrant Fee to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) before you travel to the United States. This fee is for processing your residency status and printing your Permanent Resident Card.

- Only children are exempt from entering the United States under the Hague Process. Returning residents and people traveling on a K visa do not have to pay the USCIS fee. Please go to USCIS Immigrant Fee | USCIS to make the payment.

We encourage you to read these instructions: Know Before You Go.

When You Should Travel: You must enter the United States before the expiration date on your visa, usually six months from the date of printing. Visa validity cannot be extended, and all fees are nonrefundable.

The principal applicant must enter the U.S. before or at the same time as accompanying family members with visas.

- Children who are 20 years old when their visa is issued must enter the United States before their 21st birthday to avoid losing their immigrant status.

Getting a Green Card: Your Form I-551 Permanent Resident Card, also known as a green card, will be automatically mailed to the U.S. address provided in your visa application form. This important document confirms your authorization to reside in the United States.

Return to top

After your Visa Interview

Do not travel outside the United States until you receive your green card. Once you receive it, you must not remain outside the United States for more than one year, because you will lose your status as a Lawful Permanent Resident.

Children's Issues: Children must have certain vaccinations to enroll in school in the United States, so you should bring their complete vaccination records with you. If your child is adopted, you have full custody due to a divorce, or you share custody with the other parent, you should bring copies of all adoption or custody documents issued by the authorizing court in your home country. These documents, translated into English, may be needed for school enrollment, medical care, and eventual citizenship in the United States.

Diversity Visa Applicants – Additional Information

If you are interviewing for a Diversity Visa (DV), all of the above instructions apply. You must schedule and complete a medical examination prior to your visa interview, register a document delivery option, and gather all necessary documents. For a detailed explanation of qualification criteria and required documents, please visit Diversity Visa Program - Submit an Entry.

Below are additional instructions that apply only to DV applicants.

Bring to your DV interview

In addition to the documents listed on the Pre-Interview Checklist in this package, DV applicants should also bring the following items to their visa interviews:

- Appointment information printed from the Entrant Status Check on the E-DV website.
- Documents showing that you have either a qualifying high school education OR two years of qualifying work experience in the last five years immediately prior to application (for the principal applicant only; more information is available on our Diversity Visa Process webpage).

Proof of finances (assets, savings, job offer or sponsor in the U.S.) Diversity visa applicants are subject to INA 212\(a\)\(4\) and must demonstrate to the consular officer that they will not become a public charge. To meet this requirement, applicants may need to provide evidence of financial support, which can include proof of personal funds (savings or assets), a letter of employment in the United States, or a fully completed Form I-134 (Affidavit of Support) from a sponsor in the United States.

Diversity Visa application fee: Please bring exact change in the amount of $330 U.S. dollars per applicant. Payment can be made in cash (in TL or U.S. dollars) or by credit card. This fee is non-refundable, regardless of whether a visa is issued.

Review your DV lottery entry

Before your visa interview, carefully review the information provided in your initial E-DV entry. Make sure:

- You correctly entered your marital status. If legally married, you must have listed your spouse, even if separated, unless your spouse is a U.S. citizen or Lawful Permanent Resident.
- You listed all living, unmarried children under 21 years old, including natural children, your spouse's children, and children formally adopted under the laws of your country.
- Primary applicants must have at least a high school education or its equivalent or have two years of work experience within the past five years in an occupation that requires at least two years of training or experience. The Department of State uses the U.S. Department of Labor's (DOL) O*Net OnLine Database to assess qualifying work experience. To qualify based on work experience, your occupation must have a Specific Vocational Preparation (SVP) range of 7.0 or higher.

If you fail to meet these criteria or are found ineligible for an immigrant visa on other grounds, your application will be denied, and the application fee(s) will not be refunded.
